Trophy 900/1200

"It's a beautifully balanced tourer, with a smooth and strong motor that can rival the best tourers in the world for performance, and surpass all for style."

Which Motorcycle?

The acclaim heaped upon the new Triumph Trophy by the first critical riders to climb aboard reflects the hours of careful development and refinement that is behind Triumph's new tourer.

The Trophy's striking new bodywork has already propelled it into the super league of long distance tourers by proving its worth in the cruellest of conditions - as Superbike's tester discovered... "Given my route and the biting cold, this heavily revised version of Triumph's 900 Triple is just about the ideal bike to be riding."

New handlebars with greater pull back and rise, redesigned footrests and new sculpted seat help create a feeling of balance and control that make the Trophy an effortless long distance tourer. Improved lighting with remote level adjustment and re-positioned mirrors for better rear-view visibility increase safety.

The purpose designed and colour co-ordinated 32 litre panniers complement both the looks and the performance of the bike but can be easily detached when not required, without leaving an unsightly framework to ruin the appearance of the bike.

Whilst the Trophy has come of age as a touring motorcycle, it has lost nothing of its sporting spirit.

Which Motorcycle?: "The new Trophy has recaptured the power and balance of the original bike, and added to the formula a much greater degree of style, individuality and quality of finish." and Bike Magazine's Phil West... "Predictably that (900) water-cooled DOHC 12-valve motor was just as gutsy and generally brilliant as ever. Its crisp carburation and stacks of low-rev and mid-range torque made for instant urge given a tweak of the throttle..."

Triumph have also produced a full range of accessories specifically designed for the Trophy, of which a selection of examples are shown here. These accessories give you the opportunity to tailor your own bike to your individual requirements and taste, enhancing its looks, function and value.

The Trophy is yet another fine example of Triumph's renowned reputation for quality.

Choose the Trophy, another great Triumph.

"...the new Trophy has truly entered the premier league of motorcycling. This bike... is a worthy challenger to the best."
